RHEUMATISM THE TERROR OF WINTER

Rheumatism is usually worse in Winter because of the cold and dampness and other changed conditions of the climate. The occasional twinges of the disease that are felt during the warmer weather are changed to piercing pains, the muscles become inflamed and swollen, the nerves get sore and excited, the bones ache, and Rheumatism, the terror of winter, takes possession of the system. Then the sufferer turns to the liminent bottle, the woolen clothes, the favorite plaster or some home remedy, in an effort to get relief. But Rheumatism is not a trouble that can be rubbed away or drawn out with a plaster; these things relieve the pain and reduce the inflammation, but do not reach the real cause of the trouble, and at the next exposure another attack comes on. Rheumatism is caused by a sour, acid condition of the blood. The refuse matter and bodily impurities which should be carried off through the channels of nature have been left in the system because of indigation, weak Kidney the changes of a gaugeal sharples condition of off through the channels of nature have been left in the system because of indigestion, weak Kidneys, torpid Liver and a general sluggish condition of the system. These impurities sour and form uric acid, which is absorbed by the blood and distributed to the different muscles, joints, nerves and bones, causing the painful symptoms of Rheumatism. S. S. S. goes to the root of the trouble and cures Rheumatism by cleansing the blood. It neutralizes the acids and filters them out of the circulation and sends a stream of pure, rich blood to all parts of the body. Then the pains cease, the inflammation subsides, the nerves are quieted, every symptom of the disease passes away, and the cure is permanent. S. S. S. Is purely vegetable and does not injure the system as do those medicines containing Potash and other minerals. Book on Rheumatism and medical advice without charge.

Discoveries of ancient papers just made in London by agents of the State Library here bridge an important gap in the records of the House of Burgess of Virginia, now being collected, and lead to the belief that further search will supply every missing link and eventually nake possible the publication of an unbroken series of original documents of tremendous historic value covering the entire colonial period from 1819 to 1776.

Up to a few months ago, the Burgess Journals, containing the official record of a governmental body anticating any other English institution planted upon the soil of the new world, had been practically inacessible to students and investigators. The original papers, as the great mass of them, were stored away in the Virginia State Library and the others were scattered in unknown places. Through all the years no systematic attempt had been made to gather the dust-laden documents into a publication can historians in particular. .. hat light they might shed upon a period, some-times clouded and uncertain, was lost beneath the cobwob acumulations of a

Of Immense Value.

In July of this year a follo volume appeared from the press of Everett Waddey & Ko., of this city, containing an accurate report of the Journals for the years 1773-1776. It was the first of a series issued under the direction of the Library board and edited by Mr. J. P. Konnedy, State Librarian. The volume was the result of the first step toward placing the rare old papers within reach of the public. Historians throughout the country took notice and encouragement in the work was received from all sides. It was generally conceded that the pub-lication was the most important contribution to the early history of America made in a hundred years. The most profound interest was manifested by the scholars of the land and the book went rapidly. It has already paid for itself. The ancient type was reproduced by means of specially made plates and the general typographical appearance of the volume called for high praise. Since the publication of the first num-ber the work of arranging and copying the manuscript records as gone steadily There was a gap of several years in the eighteen century, and a long missin the eighteen century, and a long miss-ing stretch of the century preceding. Stevens & Brown, of London, were en-gaged by the Library board to conduct a search upon that side of the water, and this search has at last been reand this search has at least over the warded with a measure of success. In the London Record office, material has recently been discovered, covering the years 1705, 1767 and 1768. The records were found in what are known as the Board of Trade papers of North Caro

Ina.

They are being copied, and the copies will be forwarded to Richmond at one, to constitute what will become Volume III. of the series. The search for the other missing journals will be prosecuted vigorously by the London firm, and the latest reports indicate that the chances are seed for securing the complete record.

latest reports indicate that the chances are good for securing the complete record, running back to the year 1619.

With the London discovery and the manuscripts in the Library, Mr. Kennedy is able at this time to give an unbroken collection of the Burgess journals from 1660 to 1776. Volume II. is now being prepared, it will contain the records for the years 1769, 1770, 1771 and 1772. The records for 1759-1766 will be contained in Volume IV., to be issued later. This volume will include the original papers of the Virginia Committee of Correspon dence for the year 1759 and the stamp of the virginia Committee of Correspondence for the year 1759 and the stamp act period. The entire publication—1619-1770—will be in fifteen volumes. It will take about five years to complete the work.

record were there printed for the first time, and the portions which had hitherto been printed were so rare as to be practically inaccessible. The minutes and papers of the Virginia Committee of Correspondence, from its birth to the formation of the Committee of Safety, were added after each of the printed journals. In the preface were many documents of unusual importance for an understanding of the history of the period. Among these documents were Lord Duffmore's proclamations. The illustrations were a reproduction of the extremely rare council chamber book plate, frontispice fac simile of the last page of the manuscript journal and cuts of the arms and seal of the Virginia colony, time of George III. The book was thoroughly indexed and most creditably edited. In mechanical execution it was probably the finest volume ever issued by any Southern State. The quaint old papers were interesting to the general reader and of surpassing value to the scholar and the historian.

The succeeding volumes will be of like description. The most thorough investigations are being made. The Ministers' Conference warmcommends the enterprise ly commends the enterprise and pledges its earnest support. The Baptist Council of this city and Manchester, while declining to take the lead in it owing to its other work, heartily commend it. A meeting of delegates from all the Baptist churches in Richmond and Manches ter was held in the early part of the year. It was well attended and earnest-ly favored bringing the institution to the city, promised to co-operate and appoint ed a committee of representative citizens to consider plans, site, etc. The work of that committee was inevitably delayed for some reason, which cannot be properly bee given to the public.

The summer came on and the committee was reattered. Since the autumn.

The summer came on and the commit-tee was scattered. Since the autumn season began the committee has had two meetings. There were various pre-liminaries to be settled before the com-mittee could test the sentiment of our people by asking for gifts. It took time and careful thought to settle these. For example, one cannot walk out of bis and careful thought to settle these. For example, one cannot walk out of his front door and in a few moments select a suitable site for such an institution as is projected. Options on two eligible sites have been secured. The committee has not been discharged. It continues in existence, and if the General Association will give them the appartunity they will existence, and if the General Association will give them the opportunity they will see what the Richmond people will do. I go into this detail in justice to the committee. It is not fair to say that it has shown a "calm assurance" in the matter. The sentiment of our people has never been tested.
